GORDON COMMISSION REPORTS

U.S. Tariffs Slow Canadian Expansion

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — Two Canadian authorities say a tough United States tariff policy is crippling Canada's potential industrial expansion but the rise of Soviet economic power may force the U.S. to reduce her import barriers.

The report, containing one of the most penetrating analyses yet made of Canada-U.S. economic relationships, sharply criticized American tariff and farm programs. It warned that U.S. surplus giveaway and other schemes may lead to further losses of Canadian export markets during the next few years and impose new hardships on Canadian farmers.

POICIES DANGEROUS
The long-range future appeared most optimistic. But the commission was told that although present American farm policies may not persist over the next quarter-century, this was not to "dismiss the danger of lasting injurious effects on international trade relations and on the economies of the world's major trading nations."

But while indicating that Canada may tend to "catch up" with the U.S. in the accumulation of wealth, the report had some sharp things to say about present American commercial policy.

CRITICIZE TARIFFS
It criticized American handling of its tariff laws and said that on some consumer goods the U.S. tariff is 100 per cent of the product's value.

The high American tariff, aimed particularly at manufactured products, tended to force some plants to be located in the U.S. rather than in Canada.

"It is the tariff obstacle which has had the greatest distorting impact on Canadian economic growth."

BOMB REPORTED FOUND ON TRACKS NEAR SUMMERLAND

An unconfirmed report at noon today that a bomb had been found on the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks near Summerland was being investigated this afternoon by Summerland RCMP and railway men.

The report said the bomb had not exploded. CPR officials at Penticton would neither confirm nor deny the report. No damage to tracks or delays in train schedules were noted, however.

An explosive expert from Penticton was said to be among the investigating party.

Welfare Costs Split U.K. Gov't

LONDON (Reuters) — A new split was reported in Prime Minister Macmillan's government today over costs of Britain's welfare program.

Newspaper reports of the new row among the Conservative ministers came as Parliament prepared to open a debate on the economic situation today.

Jung to Seek Leadership of Young Tory Group

OTTAWA (CP) — Douglas Jung, Canada's first Chinese member of parliament, will seek the presidency of the Young Progressive Conservative Association at its national convention here Jan. 31 and Feb. 1.

The leadership, also will be sought by George Hogan of Toronto, past president of the Ontario Young Conservatives. The retiring president is Thomas Bell, MP for Saint John-Albert and parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Churchill.

'Babies Fell Like Raindrops' at Fire

CHICAGO (AP) — A fire and explosion spread havoc through a crowded south side apartment building early today and in the frenzy to escape many children were dropped from windows of the four-story building.

One infant died and at least six other children were injured, one of whom was missing. At least 21 were injured, including nine children.

"The babies were falling like raindrops," said Jack McMillan, 31, who rushed to the scene where he said he caught five children dropped from windows. He fractured a thumb while catching one child.

Fire officials said there were 150 occupants in the building's 27 apartments.

Some tenants jumped into fire nets and others were rescued by firemen who brought them down ladders. Two or three men clinging to a third-floor ledge dropped to the ground when the ledge gave way.

There were numerous stories of heroism. One tenant, L. D. Dixon, 30, dropped to the ground from the third floor, then caught his wife, Albert, 27, and their seven-year-old son.

Harvey Lee Lawrence, 30, threw his six children one after another into arms of spectators and then rescued nine other children by dropping them from a window.

Residents of the neighborhood said the blast "shook the whole block."

"Boilermakers' Shindig"

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — The continuing Commons debate on the government's farm prices stabilization bill is beginning to sound like a boilermakers' shindig.

So far no one has lost his temper, but the verbal punches tossed back and forth Wednesday—fifth day of general debate on the measure—were pretty sharp.

There was a main event between a couple of Saskatchewan farmers: Resources Minister A. I. Hamilton and Hazen Argue, CCF whip.

It started when Mr. Argue cocked a suspicious eyebrow at Mr. Hamilton's argument that the bill does all that the Progressive Conservatives promised farmers before the last election.

he has just mentioned," Mr. Hamilton fired back.

He said Mr. Argue reported that Western farmers promised a march on Ottawa to protest against the measure. He added that when he asked Prairie farmers about that they told him: "You know that guy—he's always shouting off at the mouth."

Mr. Hamilton described the CCF as a party that "breathes suspicion, lives suspicion and preaches suspicion."

Mr. Argue charged that the bill is "political window dressing," and attacked the provision where by Agriculture Minister Harkness would be empowered to set farm support prices, expressed as a percentage of a 10-year moving price average.

There is likely to be more of this as the debate continues today. The CCF has moved an amendment which would kill the bill this session and refer the whole question to the Commons' agriculture committee.

There were other skirmishes Wednesday.

Augusto Maltais (L—Charlevoix) said there appears to be a "conspiracy of silence" on the measure among Quebec Progressive Conservatives.

Roland English (PC—Gaspe) objected, saying he spoke earlier in the debate.

Few Gov't Surprises In Throne Speech

WHY WAIT FOR SPRING? DO IT NOW!

Across the country a plea has been made to "do the job now". This appeal is being made by the federal government as a move to alleviate winter unemployment, up this year from last. Typifying the hoped-for response is Jack Foote of Penticton, who, despite snow flurries and a cold wind, keeps busy on the construction of his house on Wade Avenue East.

B.C. Pulp Strike Talks To Reopen Tomorrow

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiations between management and unions will be reopened tomorrow morning in an attempt to end British Columbia's nine-week pulp and paper strike, a union official said today.

John Sherman, vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, made the announcement.

His union and the other union involved — the United Papermakers and Paper Mill Workers of America — held closed talks here Tuesday and Wednesday to arrive at a new strike policy. Its nature was not disclosed.

Seven companies are affected by the strike which began Nov. 14. Negotiations for a settlement broke down completely earlier this month when the companies affirmed they would talk only within the scope of a conciliation board award. The award recommended a 7 1/2-per-cent wage increase for the 6,000 workers.

The unions are seeking a 12-per-cent increase. The present basic rate is 1.72 an hour. It has been estimated the strike has meant a production loss of about $40,000,000 so far for the nine mills affected, which normally produce 10 per cent of the world's newsprint supply.

The payroll loss is more than $9,000,000 and the strike has cost the unions $1,000,000.

U.S. Dominates Canadian Labor
OTTAWA (CP) — International unions with headquarters in the United States are the dominant force in Canadian organized labor, the Gordon economic commission was told in a report made public today.

But the report said Canadian branches of those unions have wide freedom to make their own decisions. There was no indication that the international unions try to force Canadian employers to pay the same wages obtained south of the border.

In fact, Canadian wages ran about 25 or 30 per cent below those in the U.S. and that gap had been continuing for some time although membership in international unions had increased greatly.

Curb Union Corruption Declares Ike
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today urged Congress to curb "corruption, racketeering and abuse of trust and power in the labor-management field."

He made the recommendation in a proposal for legislation.

Eisenhower recommended specifically that unions be subject to loss of legal bargaining status if they do not file true and proper data on their finances and other subjects.

Against a background of congressional inquiries disclosing abuses in the labor-management field, Eisenhower called for legislation "to benefit and protect the welfare of American workers and the general public."

He added it should "curb abuses" and provide greater harmony and stability in labor-management relations.

The entire legislative program recommended by Eisenhower had been unveiled previously by Labor Secretary Frank Mitchell. He outlined it in a speech at the AFL-CIO convention last December.

NO PLANS FOR ROAD MEETING

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has no plans for calling a conference with the provinces on the question of a second Trans-Canada Highway, Works Minister Green said today.

He was replying in the Commons to Frank Christian SC Okanagan-Boundary, who said there is need for a second highway and suggested it be launched as an anti-unemployment measure.

Mr. Green said he has had some letters from associations on the question, but added there had been no general discussions with the provinces. However, there had been discussions late last summer with the Saskatchewan government relating to highways in that province.

60 Injured By Explosion

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Baffled investigators painstakingly studied a gaping crater here today for the cause of a huge explosion that ripped through a railroad freight yard and injured more than 60 persons Wednesday.

There were some indications that the blast may have come from a subsurface pipe bearing chemicals underground in this highly industrialized city, but any ready evidence seemed to have been blown away.

The blast shattered a line of chemical tank cars being switched in the yards of the Niagara Junction Railroad.

It left a crater over 40 feet deep and 150 feet across. Property damage was more than $1,000,000.

Further assistance to municipalities was one of the major items in last year's throne speech, also.

The public schools act will be revised and submitted to the legislature.

The week of March 2-8 has been declared as B.C. Education Week.

Legislation Confirmed

By AL MARKLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
VICTORIA (CP) —

There were few surprises contained in the speech from the throne delivered at the opening of the 25th B.C. Legislature this afternoon.

The speech, read by Lieut.-Gov. Frank M. Ross, outlines government accomplishments during the last year and reviews its policies and intent for the coming session. The speech was about 2,000 words long.

Except in one or two cases it merely confirmed speculation concerning major legislation to be introduced during the session.

The speech said that the 800-page forestry report compiled by former chief justice Gordon Sloan will be laid before the house and that "legislation will be introduced to implement certain recommendations of this report."

Mr. Sloan, now forestry adviser to the government, dealt in his report with such subjects as the term of forest management licences, granting of existing applications for licences, discouraging applications for the next five years, and many other matters related to B.C.'s largest industry.

The government expects to receive the engineering study concerning power development of the Columbia river sometime this year, the speech said.

It also said that during the last fiscal year the government spent $80,000,000 on the highway system, excluding money spent by the toll bridges authority, and appeared to chide the federal government for contributing only $7,355,000 on the trans-Canada highway.

Legislation enabling a better superannuation allowance for municipal employees will be introduced this year.

Certain amendments will be made to the public services medical plan act, providing medical insurance for 12,000 government employees.

The speech said nothing about reports that the borrowing powers of both the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway and the B.C. Power Commission will be increased.

AGRICULTURE PROBLEMS
It said that despite an increased income of about $10,000,000 in the farm cash income, "the problems facing poultry and fruit producers, particularly continue to occupy the attention of the department of agriculture."

It promised that the municipal act, rushed through the last session, "will be reopened . . . in order to make such amendments to it as the experience of the past year has indicated."

Reorganization of the fall service of the province will be undertaken this year.

Plans to offer assistance to cities and municipalities will be submitted to the legislature, and members will be asked to approve increased provision for vocational and apprenticeship education.

Further assistance to municipalities was one of the major items in last year's throne speech, also.

The public schools act will be revised and submitted to the legislature.

The week of March 2-8 has been declared as B.C. Education Week.

It is proposed to widen the trans-Canada highway from the Pelly bridge to the King George highway to six from four lanes.

Proceed without disturbances. Perez Jimenez took to his heels after a brief but bloody civil uprising in which the military finally joined.

The junta at once began restoring some of the liberties the dictatorship of nearly 10 years had suppressed.

RELEASE PRISONERS
In addition to freedom for all political prisoners it ordered all officers who took part in the short-lived New Year's revolt restored to their rank. Punishments against them were cancelled.

Censorship was lifted. Political exiles abroad made plans to return to their homes. Release of the prisoners could land.

TODAY'S BULLETINS

No Gov't Interference With CBC

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today there can and will be no government interference with the publicly-owned CBC. He had been questioned in the Commons on published reports that some ministers were preparing to protest to the agency against what was reported to be a claimed pro-Liberal bias in some programs.

Man Brutally Beaten by Thugs

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur Hill, 58, of suburban North York said he was pistol whipped, beaten with a broom and slashed with a knife Wednesday night by two thugs who attempted to force him to endorse a cheque for $140,000 he received from the recent sale of his farm. Hill, who lives alone in his farm home, held out and the men left with only $8, all the money he had with him at the time.

Rival Greek Cypriot Groups Clash

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Bitter latent rivalry between left-wing and right-wing Greek Cypriots erupted today in a slash at Trisomo village in northeast Cyprus. Several persons were injured. This first major clash between the two groups was touched off by the slaying by masked gunmen of two left-wing supporters. Labor leaders linked EOKA with the killings.

Hoffa to Take Office Immediately

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise settlement to a suit today paved the way for James R. Hoffa to take office immediately as president of the teamsters' union.

Federal District Judge F. Dickinson Letts dissolved a temporary injunction barring Hoffa from taking over as head of the union. The judge also approved a proposal worked out by opposing lawyers to set up a "board of monitors" to watch over affairs of the union.

London Trip for May Queen Winner

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The winner of the 88th annual May Queen contest here this year will also win a trip to London to mark B.C.'s Centennial year.

Manager Bill Hughes of radio station CKNW said today expenses of the trip are being donated to the city by the station to make the 1958 May Day, scheduled for May 16, especially memorable.

The May Queen, picked from New Westminster schools and usually 11 or 12 years of age, will be flown to Los Angeles shortly after the May Day celebrations. From there she will go to Copenhagen, Denmark, aboard a Scandinavian Air Lines plane.

After visiting in Denmark she will go to London where she will visit Buckingham Palace, R.C. House and other points. She will then convey greetings of her home city to Westminster, England.

She will be flown back to Vancouver, over the pole.

Dictator Flees As Gov't Falls

By MORRIS ROSENBERG
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Marcos Perez Jimenez fled from Venezuela today, but new bloodshed marked the wild jubilation which followed the dictator's downfall.

National guardsmen opened fire on a crowd which moved on its headquarters to release political prisoners ordered freed by a military junta which took over the government. An unknown number of persons were reported killed and others were wounded.

The junta rushed two tanks to the guard headquarters to stop the firing. It appealed to the people to clear the area around the guard headquarters as the release of the prisoners could land.

Proceed without disturbances. Perez Jimenez took to his heels after a brief but bloody civil uprising in which the military finally joined.

The junta at once began restoring some of the liberties the dictatorship of nearly 10 years had suppressed.

RELEASE PRISONERS
In addition to freedom for all political prisoners it ordered all officers who took part in the short-lived New Year's revolt restored to their rank. Punishments against them were cancelled.

Cider Production Could Become a Major Industry

One of the more surprising features about the recent announcement by B.C. Fruit Processors Ltd. regarding the production of cider in the Okanagan lies in the fact that it has not been done before.

In England cider is a well known drink in both city and village, with many rural areas preparing their own particular brand. In Worcestershire, Devonshire and Herefordshire particularly, cider is produced from recipes many hundreds of years old. And, in Worcestershire at least, the cider-press still visits individual farms each year, much as the old threshing machine used to make its harvest calls in Canada.

Few farms in the three countries mentioned are without their own stock of cider stored deep in a cool cellar. We are not sure just what restrictions cover such individual production, but we can attest to the quality — and the power — of the drink.

In city or in village pubs cider is available. It has never attained the popularity of beer and possibly never will. But it is respected as a refreshing and healthful drink and is extremely popular among all classes of people.

Present plans for a cider industry in the Okanagan call for distribution through government liquor stores. While this is a commendable start we feel it hardly goes far enough to really promote the new product. If the cider could be made available in hotel beverage rooms we are confident the early sales would be most favorable. There is no reason at all why the infant industry should not grow to king-size proportions in a very short time.

In the meantime it would do no harm at all if B.C. Fruit Processors contacted a few Worcestershire farmers to ask how they make their particular brand of cider. Their methods may not be the most modern, but their finished product with its sharp tang is equal to any.

What pleasanter way to welcome the hot summer days of centennial year than by sipping on a misty glass of ice cold cider? With bread and cheese sandwiches to help out many a pioneer would have a cheerful reminder of life in rural England and the happy days of youth.

Busy Session Ahead for MLA's

Once today's ceremonial is done with we can settle down to observe what must surely turn out to be one of the most interesting sessions of the legislature. Maybe it is significant that such a session should take place in centennial year.

Already tagged the "sawdust session" by newsmen in Victoria the session, the second of this legislature, will be dominated by forestry talk. Legislation based on the Sloan Report is expected early with many of Mr. Sloan's suggestions made law.

Mr. Sloan himself will probably provide the topic for many arguments for several CCF members have already gone on record as opposing the $50,000 a year salary he has been awarded.

But the over-riding interest will be in how the Social Credit government conducts itself in face of the hard times much of the province is now suffering. Up to this present time the Socreds have boomed along on the crest of provincial prosperity. The well has not exactly dried up, but the water supply isn't quite so plentiful as it was even a year ago.

From time to time it has been suggested that the government was finding it difficult to meet its bills. Mr. Bennett has denied such suggestions with his customary vigor. In the hurly-burly of the house it will be interesting to see if he can maintain his stand that the province was never so prosperous.

Of the 52 seats in the legislature the government holds 39, so there is little possibility of any serious challenge to authority — unless something startling happens. We shall view the various sittings with interest, particularly when decisions are handed down on the Wenner-Gren proposals, the attitude of the workmen's compensation board, the Sunday sport issue in Vancouver and the new municipal act.

Mr. Pearson's First Speech

One of the Eastern writers covering the recent Liberal convention said "the new Liberal leader ran true to form but surprised many by his closing oratory in which he rose to heights which amazed and delighted his party."

Mr. Pearson amazed the whole of Canada shortly afterwards but hardly delighted us with his first speech in Parliament as Liberal leader. We expected fireworks but got instead the dull squelch of the damp squib.

Just what we expected from Mr. Pearson on that first day it is difficult to say. What we did not expect was nonsense about the Conservative party resigning to make room for the Liberals. As one of the coast papers put it "he chose to attempt a piece of political flimflam that turned out, in the event, to be so elementary that it could not conceivably fool anybody — even his supporters."

Coming from anyone else Mr. Pearson's remarks would have been shrugged off as silly. But we have a little more respect for Mr. Pearson than to call him a fool. We hope, however, that within the next few months he shows more of the courage, initiative and clear thinking that took him to his high position among the nations.

In the meantime we go along with Mr. Diefenbaker. Even with so brilliant a man as Mr. Pearson at their head the Liberals need a spell out of power.

American Investments Hit Staggering Figure

By FORBES HUME, Canadian Press Business Editor

In a little more than three years U.S. investors have invested $318,801,537 in other countries, principally in Canada and through eight companies formed for that purpose.

This is stated in a release issued from New York on behalf of the Committee of Canadian Investment Companies.

All are Canadian, in that they are formed in Canada as Canadian companies, but have non-Canadian ownership. They are:

Canada General Fund Ltd., Canadian International Growth Fund Ltd., Keystone Fund of Canada Ltd., New York Capital Fund of Canada Ltd., Boulder Fund of Canada Ltd., all members of the committee; and Investors Group, Canadian Fund Ltd., Ace - Templeton Growth Fund of Canada Ltd., and United Funds, Canada Ltd.

They are of the mutual fund type. Investors put their money into shares of the companies; the companies invest the money in various securities; and thus, through ownership in the companies, investors get an interest in a wide list of undertakings.

$25 MILLION FLASHWIRE

Of the total investment of $318,801,537 at Dec. 1, about $25,000,000 was in countries other than Canada.

In the U.S. there has been some pressure for change of the American tax law as it applies to foreign companies, but in the words of a Toronto representative of one of the companies, "The companies are set up with an eye on both the Canadian and American tax laws."

group has made representations which so far have been favorably received.

The current 24-page release seems to be directed chiefly at American readership — presumably as an answer to adverse tax representations — and sets out the value of this type of investment.

"One of the major benefits of this form of portfolio investment," the release says, "is that by its very nature it automatically tends to eliminate tensions and misunderstanding between the U.S. and other nations."

The release notes concern in Canada over the implications of direct U.S. investment (such as by parent companies in their subsidiaries).

BECOME PARTNERS

"This concern does not arise when portfolio investment companies buy shares in Canadian and other free-world companies — because the investment companies become partners of Canadians in their own enterprises rather than owing outright to the exclusion of Canadians."

"The Canadian investment companies limit sharply the percentage of outstanding voting securities of any single corporation which they can own and the percentage by value of their assets which can be invested in the securities of any one corporation."

Absentee Miners Face Discipline

By KEN METHERAL, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — British coal miners, who have demonstrated for more than 10 years that even the government can't boss them around, are preparing to discipline themselves.

In a revolutionary attempt to rid their industry of absenteeism, Lancashire miners have agreed to establish a miners' court to sit in judgment on workers who stay away from the mines without good reason.

The scheme reflects the growing concern of the National Union of Mineworkers over what it calls "wasteful" absenteeism. Last year absenteeism increased to 18.81 per cent from the 1956 rate of 12.92 despite union attempts to keep its members working. An estimated 2,000,000 tons of coal were lost.

The new scheme is confined to the 67 Lancashire pits. If successful, it is almost certain to spread throughout the nationalized industry that employs about 850 pits and 700,000 miners.

New CPR Bond

MONTREAL (CP) — A new $40,000,000 issue of Canadian Pacific Railway Company five-per-cent collateral trust bonds to mature Feb. 1, 1963, soon will be offered, it was announced Wednesday.

THE GOVERNMENT HAS CALLED THE CURRENT ECONOMIC SITUATION "A PAUSE" — OTTAWA REPORT

OTTAWA REPORT

OTTAWA — The ghost of a Liberal demi-god haunted the National Liberal Convention here last week.

It was the ghost of the former hero of back-bench Liberals, their strategy-planner in Parliament, the conscience of the Liberal Cabinet, and the heir-apparent to the party leadership until very recently.

It was the ghost of the lieutenant of the party leader, Louis St. Laurent, whose political future after his personal defeat in last year's election was one of the first cares of that leader.

But last week in Ottawa Liberals, who had courted the friendship and craved the help of that man in former times, averted their eyes to avoid having to speak to his ghost. Nobody nominated him for the leadership, whereas a year ago half the party would have fought for the honour of nominating the likely winner.

It was the ghost of the greatest Minister of Finance of all those long "Van Doos" years of Liberal government — the Hon. Walter Harris.

POLITICAL MURDER

Who slit Walter Harris' political throat? And why?

Experienced observers today feel that a man with his political courage, his fairness and honesty, and above all his personal and political record, is now more than ever needed in Ottawa by his party.

St. Laurent was always among the most sincere admirers of Harris. After the election, according to other Liberals here, he

UNITED KINGDOM OPINION

Britain Hoping for Mid-Summer Talks

By "ONLOOKER" THOMSON NEWSPAPERS London, England, Bureau

With Parliament back into motion opinion is hardening regarding the value of having summit talks as soon as they can be arranged. But most think that the talks should be accompanied by preliminary talks among the foreign ministers.

The British view is almost identical to the German view just declared by Adenauer — that if the ground for conference is not well-titled first before the chiefs start talking it may be easier for the whole business to get bogged down. And it is felt that an indifferent summit conference would be worse than no conference at all.

When would the British prefer the talks? Politically, there are reasons for thinking that they will seek a meeting some time in mid-summer. If it comes fairly soon on the heels of the budget, which is sure this year to contain some relief for the taxpayer, it will constitute another triumph to occupy public attention as polling comes near.

FAIR SHARE

But whatever the budget brings forth, wanting more concessions right now are the coal miners, who have put in for a new pay rise. But they are losing, in the process, what public sympathy they once had. It is true that before the war miners were just on an existing rather than a living wage, but since the mines were nationalized under the immediate post-war Labor administration they have had a fair share — and more — of the whip.

Coal prices to the consumer over here have gone up by about 400 per cent since pre-war days. In basic terms, where a hundredweight bag of coal that the British throw on their fires cost 28c, it now costs $1.40. On the other hand, although output of coal since 1950 has remained fairly static — between 75 and 80 hundredweights every man-shift — wages since that time have doubled.

ABRORNE SQUABBLE

From below the ground to above the ground. Still unresolved here is the squabble that has arisen regarding the granting of the key contract to build a new jetliner for British Overseas Airways — the state-run organization that covers the European mainland for Britain.

Just signed is a big order by British Overseas Airways for a jetliner to be made by Vickers — the same firm that did the Viscount and is now forging ahead with the larger Vanguard, its successor, for medium-distance routes. Not a penny of public money is being spent on the new plane, which will be faster (just) than the American Boeing 707.

But the squabble over the BEA aircraft is an indication that the Government over here, more than once bitten in the matter, is getting tough with manufacturers and insisting that they pool their resources more. And at the moment the industry, while ready to merge for specific projects, is reluctant to do it over a long term.

Now the choice is between de Havilland and a huge concern formed by an affiliation of the Hawker group, who have been making most military aircraft recently, and Bristol, who made the Britannia. And — after four-ing millions of dollars of public money into civil aviation research since the war, the Government is ever gets the contract for the new airliner will have to "go it alone" with no help from the taxpayer. The order will be worth about 80 million dollars initially, with a good chance of big overseas sales.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

Still keeping in the air it is probable that Britain's Royal Air Force will grab most of the headlines and most of the limelight when the Defence White Paper comes out here in the middle of next month.

The main reason: The refit of Britain's defence system is being hastened by the introduction of more guided missiles, which will be coming in at least two years before they were originally expected.

Further cuts in the strength of Fighter Command are expected, and the future tendency will be to have all Britain's fighter stations ranged along the eastern coast of the country instead of, as now, strewn all over the place.

A personal sign of the times for Londoners: Biggin Hill, most famous of all fighter stations during the Battle of Britain, lost its last fighters this week.

OTTAWA REPORT

The Ghost of Walter Harris

By PATRICK NICHOLSON Special Correspondent to the Herald

OTTAWA — The ghost of a Liberal demi-god haunted the National Liberal Convention here last week.

It was the ghost of the former hero of back-bench Liberals, their strategy-planner in Parliament, the conscience of the Liberal Cabinet, and the heir-apparent to the party leadership until very recently.

It was the ghost of the lieutenant of the party leader, Louis St. Laurent, whose political future after his personal defeat in last year's election was one of the first cares of that leader.

But last week in Ottawa Liberals, who had courted the friendship and craved the help of that man in former times, averted their eyes to avoid having to speak to his ghost. Nobody nominated him for the leadership, whereas a year ago half the party would have fought for the honour of nominating the likely winner.

It was the ghost of the greatest Minister of Finance of all those long "Van Doos" years of Liberal government — the Hon. Walter Harris.

POLITICAL MURDER

Who slit Walter Harris' political throat? And why?

Experienced observers today feel that a man with his political courage, his fairness and honesty, and above all his personal and political record, is now more than ever needed in Ottawa by his party.

St. Laurent was always among the most sincere admirers of Harris. After the election, according to other Liberals here, he telephoned Harris to summon him to a private interview. The Liberal Party needed Harris in Parliament, and a safe seat would be found for him, he was told.

Doc McMillan, of Welland, and Leo Gauthier, of Sudbury, both unselfishly offered to resign, to open a seat for Harris whom they believed had a greater contribution to make. The new Prime Minister, John Diefenbaker, shared the admiration for Harris as a man, and offered to try to assure him an acclamation.

About that time, one or two prominent younger Liberals started the job of cutting down their defeated leader. The Ontario Young Liberals convention finished the job.

Then the Liberal strategy-plotters in Ottawa intervened in the Harris story. If Harris ran for the leadership, he would split the Anglo-Protestant vote with Mike Pearson, and Franco-Catholic Paul Martin might slip between them to victory.

Then all Canada outside Quebec would really scream: a party with 75 per cent Quebec or French-Catholic M.P.s and with a second Catholic leader would be so obviously a French Party that the little remaining Anglo-Protestant support would be scared off, said the Brass.

BITING THE HAND THAT FED

So Harris must be eliminated from public life, to make the leadership safe for Pearson.

Mr. Pearson had no share in this plot. Had he known of it, he would surely have stopped it, for Walter Harris was his political midwife, who found him a safe seat in Algoma, who later unsuccessfully offered to switch him to a Toronto seat, and manoeuvred his easy path through four elections.

Mr. Harris, ever ready to help each newcomer or any old pro, also mid-wifed Jack Pickersgill, arranging his adoption by Newfoundland, nursing him through the parliamentary diaper age, and finally coaching him as his successor in his own former portfolio of citizenship and immigration.

Pickersgill showed his gratitude by pledging his support to Harris' aspirations to the leadership, and sought, as his reward, the promise of the job as minister of finance. Honest Mr. Harris protested that the matter was too hypothetical for such a promise.

Last week Pickersgill called a press conference to declare himself a Pearson supporter.

Delegates in Ottawa's Coliseum believed that it was neither Mike Pearson nor Paul Martin who road-blocked the St. Laurent plot to restore Harris to active politics. For this, as for many other political crimes, the Brass, blamed the Brass; and the Brass, the Brass believes, consists of a small group of party officials and retired or defeated cabinet ministers, a mixture of big business and of active politics.

This is the explanation of the Harris mystery which many unhappy Liberals here endorse.

RIBLE THOUGHT

As for man, his days are as grass, as a flower of the field, so he flourisheth, for the wind passeth over it and the place thereof shall know it no more. Psalm 104:14, 15.

Man is physically related to the lower animals, sharing their physical limitations, but he also is a son of God.

"Flat required for young couple with baby unfurnished, if possible."

A little cold for a youngster, isn't it?

Dick Elliott New Prexy of Osoyoos Board

OSOYOOS — The largest attendance for many years was expected at the Board of Trade annual banquet here. Ninety-two members, guests and ladies were present to see J. R. "Dick" Elliott installed as the new president of the local Board of Trade.

Chairman of the Village Commissioners, H. H. Hesketh, conducted the installations. Vice-president is Bruce Smith and secretary Stan Stodola.

The 1958 board of directors: George Wells, retiring president; Dick Schmidt, Jack McCallum, Leo Pierron, Jack Cox, F. B. Van Duzee, Arvid Johnson, and Louis Viard.

The banquet, catered to by the Catholic Women's League, was held in the St. Anne's Hall.

A BUSY YEAR

Reviewing 1957, retiring president George Wells showed that the board had an active year. The membership was '86, with an average attendance at meetings of 20.

Three signs had been erected, 500 publicity folders distributed — efforts towards work on the Richter Pass — house numbering — sponsoring a 4-party political meeting — arranging for two conventions — and a Christmas light-up campaign were among the projects undertaken.

GUEST SPEAKER

Paul Burmeister, superintendent of schools at Oroville, was the guest speaker. He dealt with education in the United States, and pointed out that there was hardly any federal control. A State board elects local boards who in turn hire a superintendent whose duties include transportation, finances and hiring of teachers.

Athletics rate very high in the curriculum. Leadership training is also rated high as it is felt this is the best way to fight "isms."

Mr. Burmeister also explained that an equalization system meant that poor and rich districts were afforded an equal chance for education.

Driver Proves Ticket Invalid

Herald's Vernon Bureau

VERNON — Council for the Crown Wednesday failed to prove the legality of a parking ticket issued to Max T. Fisher, because a lane was not dedicated.

Surprise note in police court, when Fisher, conducting his own defense, introduced evidence that the area that he was allegedly parked in, was not a dedicated lane. This means the lane was not set aside for public use. Under such a ruling, it therefore did not qualify as an illegal place for parking, as defined by the city by-law.

Smiling, magistrate Smith told the prosecutor, "He's got you over a barrel on this one," and dismissed the charge.

PROMENADE

Two Square Dance Parties, Round Dance Classes Set

By D. G.

There will be two square dance parties this Saturday, Jan. 25. One is at Peachland, the other at the Athletic Hall, starting at 8:00 p.m. with Ray Frederickson as emcee. This will be a beginners' level dance and should be a lot of fun for those who started dancing this season. Please bring a sack lunch. French's Twirlers are also having a party at Oliver, at 8:00 p.m. in the Community hall, with Bill French as emcee. All square dancers welcome. This should be fun for intermediate dancers.

On Sunday, Jan. 26, at 2:30 p.m. the Polkaaters Dance Club are having a workshop at Okanagan, Washington, in the Grange Hall. Please bring a few sandwiches, cookies, or cake.

ROUND DANCE CLASS

Starting on Thursday night, Jan. 23, and continuing on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, there will be a round dance class held at the Youth Center in Sumnerland, at 8:00 p.m. This class is open to any dancers in the Okanagan Valley who have finished their basic instruction in round dancing, and have preferably danced at least one season.

The desire to learn round dances not generally taught at the square dance classes will be the main requisite of those attending.

The Pentiction Recreation Commission, in conjunction with the Sumnerland and Peachland commissions, realizing the importance of that round dancing plays in the over-all square dance picture throughout the valley, have applied for a grant from the Department of Education, Community Programmes Branch, to assist with these classes.

It is also hoped to have at least one or two workshops on round dance fundamentals for those dancers who are just beginning their dancing this season. These round dance classes it is hoped, will alleviate the feeling of some that they are getting too many round dances at the square dance classes, and of others that they are not getting the opportunity to learn the popular rounds that they wish.

This will make for better relations at the square dance parties, too, as the round dances on the program will, for the most part, be those that have been taught at the square dance classes. Les Boyer of Okanagan, Washington, will be instructor for this group.

Pentiction's next party nite will be on February 1, with Bob Emerson as emcee.

Big Job Today For Canada

Canada is the only real democracy of any size left in the world today according to Dr. W. J. Rose of Naramata. Rhodes scholar and former professor at several universities.

Speaking before more than 100 members and guests of the Pentiction Canadian Club last night, Dr. Rose said Canada presents a reservoir of still unexploited natural resources which, in proportion to population, has no equal on earth. In her position this country has a big job to do in the world.

RESOURCES NOT A GIFT

We must remember, he said, that our resources are in no way a gift from heaven handed us on a platter, to be treated as one does a T-bone steak, but rather they are to be compared with the ownership of a Stradivarius violin. Only those who learn to use it rightly may be said to own it.

What people need in the world today apart from something to eat and to wear is the right to be themselves, he said.

"Too many nations, for too long a time, have been denied this through the ages, either in the name of politics, or business, or even religion. This will not be tolerated any longer. Those who cling to the old paternalism, even though it is benevolent, are riding for a fall."

UNIQUE WORK

The speaker said Goldwin Smith and others, who held that Canada had no future save as part of a mighty North American Union, have been proven wrong. "Are we presumptuous if we believe that there is work for us to do in the world of a kind that no one else can attempt? Two things stand out, as we look at this situation."

SEWER INSPECTIONS UP

Sewer inspection charges in Pentiction are going up immediately from 50 cents to $2.00 each and drainage permits from $1 to $2 each. Council also adopted a committee recommendation that plumbing permits be issued on the basis of $1 per fixture with $2 being the minimum charge.

LIFE IS MADE EASIER for mentally retarded children who are instructed in varied activities by Mrs. Douglas Carter, teacher of the Happyland school, conducted by the Pentiction and District Society for Mentally Handicapped. The class of four is presently being taught in a room in the United Church hall.

SPECIAL CLASSES

Guiding Retarded To Place in Life

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of articles on retarded children and the work being done to help them.

By LEN WALKER

Mentally retarded children need no longer spend their lives in the shadowed land of the past.

Throughout Canada, and indeed the entire world, groups are being formed with the dedicated aim of educating to a degree of usefulness these children formerly condemned to spend a completely wasted life.

Through efforts of parents and friends of retarded children, and children otherwise handicapped, societies have been formed to assist children in training and rehabilitation. These societies also serve to advise and counsel parents with their problems.

With the growth of these societies life is made easier, better and more useful for those who are destined to remain at the mental age of childhood.

Here in Pentiction, a school for the retarded has been established in the United Church Hall, where the mentally handicapped are being taught useful crafts according to their ability, by a qualified teacher.

A visit to the school, still in its infancy, cannot fail to arouse interest in the work being carried out by the Pentiction and District Society for the Mentally Handicapped.

Efforts of the local society and its school are beginning to bear fruit though the organization is but a few months old. It has been shown that when under the care of a teacher who understands their needs, it is possible for children of retarded mentality to learn simple tasks which enables them in later life to earn a living.

On the other hand, experience has shown that children capable of learning but, receiving no training, will almost certainly become a public charge.

It is accepted the world over that prisons hold a good many criminals who, because of lack of training started life with terrible handicaps. Born misfits they found themselves on the wrong side of the law and appeared before juvenile courts and later behind bars.

Many will say it wasn't the handicap which resulted in their becoming a public charge. However, few realize that because of their rejection the youngsters chose to hate society. Being mocked as different and having had too much time on their hands, proved the cause of their trouble.

Realizing the need for parent's education also, a school in Ontario, as far back as four years ago, began holding monthly sessions to meet this need. Experts, knowing that teachers could not be expected to accomplish the needed training in a few hours each day, decided to instruct parents on how they might continue the training at home.

The goal is quite evident. By giving a retarded child the opportunity to learn, we are aiding that child to an ultimate goal of usefulness whereby he gains at least partial independence.

Chest X-ray Urged For School Staff

Dr. D. A. Clarke, director of the South Okanagan Health Unit, appeared at School District 15 board meeting last night and asked that all staff, including teachers, janitors and bus drivers, be given chest x-rays.

Dr. Clarke said this was very important and it was hoped the staff would agree to the x-ray.

The board was also asked to reconsider continuation of the dental clinic which has been carried on, and proven worthwhile, during the last term.

After inspecting several schools Dr. Clarke came up with a recommendation for new lighting in several rooms which he found to be dimly lit.

The board approved a plan to have two professors from the University of B.C. give lectures to night school students on child care, March 14 and 15 if approximately 50 registrations for the class are forthcoming.

A representative from the night school said March 14 would be an all-day session with a half-day on the 15th.

Regarding an activity room addition to the West Bench school an estimate of $20,500 was received from an architect. The activity room is being urged by the West Bench W.A. This was left in abeyance as was the decision on the proposed two-room addition to the same school estimated to cost $19,000.

The activity room, should it be constructed will measure 36 feet by 50 feet with a 14-foot ceiling. The two classrooms would each measure 30 feet by 25 feet.

Naramata Anglican Church Guild Reviews Activities of Past Year

NARAMATA — At the annual meeting of St. Peter's Anglican Church Guild, the retiring president, Mrs. Donald Furner, reported to members on the activities of the group during her term of office. She expressed warm appreciation to all the members who had co-operated and worked with her cheerfully and efficiently, with the result that St. Peter's Guild had a very successful year financially.

Two fund raising projects, a spring tea and fall bazaar, had made possible the payment of the final amount owing on the parish hall, which is now debt free, with money borrowed being paid by the guild in four years. The final payment was presented to the vestry committee on behalf of the guild by Rt. Rev. P. R. Beattie, Bishop of the Kootenay, on December 8 at a congregational tea held in his honor by the guild.

In addition to this large expenditure, the guild purchased 12 folding steel chairs, six dozen teaspoons, other smaller items and "Beanie's" to be worn by members of the children's choir. New projects included the very popular monthly "Newsletter" edited and published by Mrs. G. P. Tinker, and giving news of events and people of the parish. A visiting committee was formed to call on new-comers and shut-ins; also a caretaker committee of two members each month to clean, arrange flowers for the altar and other general duties. Two cleaning "Bees" were held with all members assisting at Easter and for the harvest festival.

Family Pet Can Be Taken on Trip

If you plan to pack the family pet feline or canine into the car come vacation-time, here are a few hints you may find useful.

The touring dog is usually a good traveller and needs only a little special care. Don't feed him for at least two hours before leaving. Take him for a few short rides before the "grand tour". And teach him the few essentials of car obedience: to stay put in the car, to sit or lie, not to bark, and to come when called, after he's been released for exercise. Get him an over-size dog tag (in case he gets lost in strange country).

Don't worry about accommodations. Some of the best hostels for welcome travellers with dogs.

Cats, generally speaking, do not travel so well as dogs. If you're planning to take Kitty with you, I'd advise putting her in some kind of enclosure. A box with a side of chicken wire should do. Take along a leash and collar so she won't stray when you reach your destination. Don't feed her too soon before starting out. Cat's a more nervous traveller than a dog. Feed her canned food and fresh milk when you've reached your stop-over point. Cats are noted for cleanliness, so don't worry on this score.

With cats and dogs, as with human travellers, the same rule applies: plan well and you'll travel pleasantly.

To make durable cushions you can buy pre-fabricated vinyl foam sections and cover them yourself.

UPSIDE-DOWN PEAR CAKE

LET'S EAT

Inexpensive Beef Has Fine Flavor

Roast beef is the favorite meat for Sunday dinner. Madame, the Chef was saying, "but this winter the cost is very high. So I suggest using one of the less expensive cuts and, at the same time, please the family with that good beef flavor."

For example, serve a boned chuck pot roast, a fine Spanish casserole made from stewing beef or a savory chopped meat loaf, covered with pie pastry and roasted as done by French home-makers.

Full Time Job as Wife Of Writer

TORONTO (CP)—When you're married to Canada's most successful television playwright and exposed to writing 24 hours a day it seems a natural reaction to want to write also.

That's the case with pretty Mrs. Sheila Hailey who did her share of writing in earlier years. She is more than tempted to resume her writing activities these days because her husband Arthur has his working headquarters in their Toronto home.

"But I haven't succumbed as yet," she explained, "because I've got a full time job just looking after Art and the children."

HAS TWO CHILDREN
The Hailey family consists of two small children, Jane, 3, and Steven, 1.

"It's a very difficult and demanding husband," Art said. "He really is," agreed Sheila, "but he's improved a lot since we were married."

Author Hailey has divorced himself from household duties in order to write, his wife said. Actually this doesn't upset Mrs. Hailey in the least. Furthermore she makes sure his rigid demand "no interruptions of any kind whatsoever" is carried out.

"Art accomplishes more in 10 minutes than many people do in an hour," she said with envy. "He's one of those people who spring from bed at the crack of dawn, avid for their typewriters. By 5 p.m. he's through for the day and ready to enjoy himself. It gives us a much more ordered life."

Sheila said in her working days she had to drive herself to the typewriter and consequently got a late start which would find her burning the midnight oil much to her husband's exasperation.

Sheila's writing days go back to before, and during her first year of marriage. At that time she was one of the assistant editors of a monthly magazine.

When she left her job it was to free lance in company publications. She did this until February, 1955, almost a year after Jane was born.

The household began to change in 1956 when Mr. Hailey made his home his official working headquarters. It was around that time he sold his first TV play.

His workshop would stir envy in the heart of any journalist. The room, added to their ranch house last year, is 22 by 24 feet with a large modern brick fireplace. It has its own private bathroom and sports two glass walls looking out to the patio and garden.

Cereal can be used as well as crackers to stretch meat.

FASHIONABLE FOOTSTEPS

BY TRACY ADRIAN

Perfect footnotes to a pretty resort dress, these shoes forecast what will be worn with summer dresses at home later. The ombre effect of these linen pumps, shaded from red to palest pink, is achieved by making the toe with pink, then following it with a series of tufts that get progressively darker, ending in a red heel. A tailored hok is an added attraction. The shoe also comes in moss to water green or royal to sky blue.

Great-Grandparents Attend Christening

Four great-grandparents of Michael William Swift were among family members present when he was christened at a pleasing ceremony following the Sunday services in St. Saviour's Anglican Church. Rev. Canon A. R. Eagles was the officiating clergyman.

Four-month-old Michael William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Swift of Esquimalt and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Swift and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lowndes all of Penticton.

His great-grandparents, also residents of this city, are Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Swift and Mr. and Mrs. William Suckling, Government Street.

Godparents for the tiny lad are his uncle, John Lowndes, Penticton, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Johnson of Esquimalt.

Following the ceremony, the principal's maternal grandparents entertained at coffee serving the guests with cake from his parent's wedding.

Among other family members present for the occasion were the infant's great uncle and great aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brown, Summerland.

New Officers of Kiwanis Installed At Summerland

Members of the Past Matrons' Club of Edina Chapter, No. 33, Order of the Eastern Star, elected Mrs. W. Watts president at the annual dinner meeting in the Penticton United Church hall. She succeeds Mrs. Stanley Dicken who presided when annual reports were submitted and the 1958 slate of officers elected.

Mrs. Cliff Greyell is the club's new vice-president and Mrs. J. G. Webster will serve her second term as secretary-treasurer. Mrs. A. D. McCune and Mrs. J. L. Hooper were appointed to the visiting committee when the newly elected president assumed her position; Mrs. J. D. Crawford and Mrs. Bruce Cousins will be in charge of entertainment for three months and Mrs. James Meldrum will be responsible for the memorial book for the ensuing year.

The current "March of Dimes" campaign will receive a donation from the club.

Prior to the business of the evening, a delicious turkey dinner was served by members of the Mizpah-Companion Circle of the United Church Women's Federation. Head table guests included Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dicken, Mrs. Perley McPherson, worthy matron of Edina Chapter, and Mr. and Mrs. William Chapp, recent arrivals in Penticton from St. George, New Brunswick.

The meeting adjourned for an enjoyable social hour with the showing of colored slides by Mrs. Dicken.

Wrestling Fans In Rowdy Mood

NEW YORK (AP)—Two men were injured and the management of the St. Nick's Arena was given a summons Wednesday night following a series of fights which broke out among the spectators at a tag wrestling match.

The two men were treated at a nearby hospital and sent home. Police gave a summons to the arena management for permitting a disorderly disturbance on a licensed premise.

The trouble started after Chris and John Tolos, brothers from Canada, had wrestled Pat O'Connor and Chief Red Cloud for about 12 minutes. Each had one fall.

Booing, stamping, whistling and shouting started when one of the Tolos brothers apparently pushed his hand and fingers in the chief's face.

From there the disturbance quickly turned into numerous individual fights among the crowd, estimated at about 2,000. One of the injured men was struck in the eye by part of a broken chair.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Willie Hartack, leading U.S. jockey for the last three years, hit a dismal slump early in the winter, but is back on the beam now and racing fans who deserted him are coming back in droves.

AMERICANS IMPRESSIVE

U.S. Club Holds Dunlops to Draw

ST. PAUL, Minn. (CP)—A United States national hockey team was tabbed today as one to watch in the coming world tournament in Oslo following its surprise 2-2 tie here Wednesday night with Whittby Dunlops, who will represent Canada in the world competition.

The Americans were cheered on by a crowd of 5,044 as they held Dunlops scoreless for the first two periods. In the first meeting of the two-game series, at Hibbing, Minn., Tuesday night the Canadians won 6-3.

Wren Blair, manager of the Canadian entry, said after Wednesday's game that "I am more impressed with the U.S. team at this stage than I am with the Russians." He thought the Americans stand an "excellent chance against any of the top contenders at Oslo."

"I consider the U.S. team 20 per cent better than the best senior A teams we have met in Ontario," Blair added. "This tie should convince Canadian fans that we have more to fear in the world tourney than just Russia."

Barnes Refuses To Meet Atkins

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australian George Barnes, contender for the world welterweight boxing title, said today International Boxing Club officials could forget about an offer being made to him to meet Virgil Atkins in world elimination at Madison Square Garden March 7 or 14.

Barnes said: "They can forget it. They have no money there for me. They would pay my plane transportation, but I would have to meet my own expenses. These might run into a lot of money."

Nuclear Power To Replace Coal?
HAMILTON CP)—The nuclear energy division of Canadian Westinghouse Limited Wednesday night disclosed plans of an atomic reactor which it says will help make nuclear power competitive with coal.

The reactor, designed by the division and ready for production uses raw uranium for fuel instead of the enriched uranium usually used in similar reactors.

V. V. Mason, division manager, said the design could produce power as little as 8.5 mills a kilowatt hour, compared with four to five mills for present coal-operated systems.

ATOM AGE MAKES MAGINOT LINE USEFUL

France's Maginot line, which proved so futile when it was outflanked during World War II, is being kept in a state of preparedness. Here is an entrance to the Hackenberg section of the line, near Thionville in the Moselle department. The extensive underground network, which includes factories, arsenals and depots over 100 feet below ground level, could easily be adapted to atomic war defence and perhaps attack. In the Hackenberg "factory" section of the line visited by newsmen, which is over ten miles long, 1,200 men can stay below ground for a period of at least three months. The entire line is several hundred miles long.

Rehearsal Sword Fight Turns Into Real Duel

ROME AP) — A Bulgarian basso and an Italian tenor are suing each other for damages over a rehearsal sword fight for the Rome Opera which turned into a real duel. It all happened at a full-dress rehearsal Tuesday night for the Rome Opera presentation of Giuseppe Verdi's Don Carlos. Christoff was playing Philip II, and Corelli had the part of Don Carlos, Philip's son. The libretto called for Don Carlos to whip out his sword and menace his father. Philip was to snatch a sword from a soldier and ward off the attack. But that sequence of events fast went astray. The two actors became incensed, each claiming that the other was trying to get the most advantageous position on the stage. Christoff gave this version of what came next: "From the start of the scene Don Carlos had taken the wrong position. He was too near me. 'When I followed the libretto instructions whipping out the sword he was supposed to be five or six yards away. But he was right in front of me. To have him withdraw I touched his sword and right away there started this duel, for which I am not to blame.'"

DIFFERENT STORY
Corelli told it differently: "I took the stage position which I had already carefully studied and which would not have hidden Philip II from the audience. This, however, caused tension. 'I was expecting the reaction of a Philip II, who is supposed to be a crippled and ailing man. Instead, he came at me like a catapult. There was no more Philip II in front of me, but only Christoff who was charging upon me as if he had lost his senses.'"

At the end of the furious encounter Christoff stalked off the stage. The opera management refused to continue rehearsals, and they put another basso, Mario Petri, in his place for tonight's scheduled opening performance.

Other regional conferences for Saskatchewan-Manitoba and the Maritime provinces likely would be held later in February. The four meetings would be followed by a national conference to put the finishing touches to the election platform.

Warns of Market Plan Departures
REYNOLD (CP) — The president of the National Dairy Council of Canada today asked producers to take a close second look at proposed marketing schemes for dairy products.

F. J. Reynolds, speaking for Canada's dairy processors and distributors, told the annual meeting of the Dairy Farmers of Canada that existing agencies for handling dairy products have been built up slowly and "provide an outlet for all the milk and cream produced in Canada."

"I suggest . . . that radical departures from the slowly evolved methods of marketing should be open to close and continuing scrutiny," he said. Some marketing plans claimed ability to handle dairy products more efficiently and with greater returns to primary producers. But processors were not convinced their investments and management skills could, or should, be considered "expedient."

He said there is also implication that rigid price control is to be effected as a means of improving returns to producers.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

Tobias Stone, tempestuous member of the six-man American team which will compete for the world championship at Lake Como, Italy, starting this Saturday, was declarer at four hearts.

He played the hand in brilliant style to score the vulnerable game and help our team win the National Masters Team of Four Championship when that event was played in Pittsburgh last summer.

The bidding was typically Roth-Stone-ish. Roth's three diamond bid (forcing) was made for the purpose of learning whether Stone had a five-card heart suit. When Stone responded three hearts, Roth (correctly) contracted for game in hearts rather than spades.

West led the diamond king and shifted to a club when his partner played the deuce. Declarer won with the ace and led a heart to the king which lost to the ace. Back came a diamond which South ruffed. Two trumps and three club tricks were cashed, presenting this picture

The lead was in dummy and the crucial decision had to be made. Had Stone made the normal lead of a low spade to the queen, the contract would have been defeated. But Stone sensed the true situation.

He ruffed the jack of diamonds and led a low spade to the king. East took his ace and had to return a spade. When he led the spade deuce, South played low dummy's ten took the trick, and the queen provided the game-going trick.

The unusual endplay gained our team 720 points. When the same hand was played at the other table, where I was East, the North-South pair arrived at a four spade contract.

Declarer, playing at spades, had no reason to handle the trumps abnormally and lost two trumps, a heart and a diamond to go down one.

BEHIND THE SCREEN

No Monster Roles For Boris Karloff

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The laboratory looked familiar, but the monster was different. And what's this? — Boris Karloff was playing the mad doctor.

As any student of the chiller movie knows, Karloff was the Christopher Columbus among monsters. He was the original in the 1931 trail blazer, Frankenstein, in which Colin Clive played the title role. (Don't fall into the common error of calling the monster Frankenstein; that was the name of its creator.)

Now it's Karloff, playing the title role in the futuristic Frankenstein 1970, so named to avoid confusion with the umpteenth other Frankenstein.

Would like other roles. The actor limped around his lab with fiendish glee as he experimented with his home-made monster.

"Lift your left arm," commanded Karloff, and the monster did so. It was a large one, played by six-foot-nine Mike Lane, and swathed in bandages like a mummy.

When the scene was over, Karloff resumed his identity as the urbane, English-born actor and sighed over his fate in motion pictures.

"Even though I have played all kinds of roles in television and on the stage," he said, "the producers here can think of me only in terms of so-called horror pictures. Mind you, an actor is lucky to be typed, but you would think that they'd realize I can do something else.

TYPICAL OF HOLLYWOOD "I wouldn't think of playing a monster again. The monster was an interesting character at first. But then they reduced him to nothing but a stupid brute. No actor wants to play a stupid character.

"What they have done with these pictures is typical of Hollywood thinking. They have exploited them over and over again until the pictures mean nothing. Why, when they make something like Abbott and Costello Meet the Monster, you can see to what levels they have fallen. Not to mention this current one — I was a teenage Frankenstein.

Karloff feels that the "horror movie" cognomen is a mistake. "The greatest writer in the field was Edgar Allan Poe," he remarked. "He called his stories tales of mystery and imagination. And that's what they should be: Something to stimulate the imagination. But that's not what you get in these 'horror movies' today."

CHICKENS TAKE TO THE AIR IN THEIR COOPS

When a tornado roared through California, this chicken coop was lifted into the air and deposited on a tree, its occupants squawking but unhurt. Not so lucky were 1,000 other birds in adjoining coops. They were all killed as the tornado cut a 75-yard swath for four miles across farmlands near Santa Rosa.

British Mission May Visit Canada This Year

MONTREAL (CP)—An industrialist who visited the United Kingdom with the Canadian Trade Mission last fall said today a return visit by British businessmen is expected this year.

Hugh Crombie, vice-president and treasurer of the Dominion Engineering Company Limited of Montreal, told a meeting of the Canadian Exporters Association the timing of the mission was "excellent."

"The sterling area is 'not quite as attractive' to Britain as it has been, he said, and British industry is 'now prepared to take a really serious look at the Canadian market.'"

Mr. Crombie's remarks were released to the press before delivery.

UP TO BRITISH
"It is expected that a return mission from the United Kingdom will visit Canada this year," Mr. Crombie said. "We made the first move... the next move is theirs."

The Canadians on their mission to Britain told U.K. manufacturers where the British were going, wrong in Canada and what they could do about it.

"Our advice," he said, "was very much appreciated."
Samples of the advice:
"The British habit of understatement... doesn't sell goods... do a bit more shouting... study the requirements of the Canadian market and the buying habits of Canadians; send out technicians; speed up deliveries to Canada, even if sterling area customers have to wait longer."

RESTORE PATTERN
Mr. Crombie said the purpose of the Canadian mission had been to stimulate purchases from the U.K. of goods now imported from non-Commonwealth countries with a view to restoring the "triangular pattern of trade that existed between Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom previous to 1939."

"The pattern was disrupted by the Second World War and since then Britain, after rebuilding and rehabilitating its industries, turned its productive capacity to caring for sterling area demands.

Canada, he said, is "perturbed regarding our very serious imbalance of trade with the United States."

"As Canadians it is in our own self-interest to reduce our overwhelming and growing dependence on the United States as a trading partner."

"If we are economically dependent on the United States, can we remain politically independent?"

OTTAWA (CP)—There still is some uncertainty about United States ability to prevent major depressions, two Canadian economists suggested in a report made public today.

This view, at variance with some American economists who say the U.S. has sufficient props to halt a major breakdown, was for the Gordon economic commission by S. S. Reisman of the finance department and Professor Irving Brecher of McGill University.

Their report said that despite Canada's economic growth, Canada will be for many years "highly sensitive" to changes in the American business cycle.

"In the face of these observations, the question arises whether it now makes sense to discuss future Canadian sensitivity in the context of the 1929-33 type of American recession."

"... The record of the past 10 years suggests that the American economic and financial structure has probably achieved enough built-in stability and American economic policy enough maturity to make the contingency of severe depression quite remote."

Hints at New Political Party
MONTREAL (CP)—Ex-mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal Wednesday night urged a province-wide campaign for public morality.

Hinting at the formation of a new political party, he urged citizens of Montreal and other Quebec municipalities to form "civic action league centres" to combat irregularities and scandals in governments.

Such centres, he said, could "fight everything that might weaken the moral and civic sense of the population and if need be could sustain a decisive political effort."

The Montreal Civic Action League backed Mr. Drapeau when he became mayor in 1954. He was defeated by Mayor Sarto Fournier last fall, but the CAL won 35 of 66 elective city council seats.

Mr. Drapeau attacked the Montreal English-language newspapers and the "yellow-press" scandal sheets which, he said, supported Mayor Fournier and gave readers the impression the Drapeau administration "reeked of fascism."

Stanley Lee Hunter, who left his home in suburban Burnaby Aug. 17, 1957, to take part in the fish derby, was presumed to have drowned in Howe Sound the following day. An order to that effect was granted on the application of his wife Doreen Emily Hunter.

Sarah George Anna Leason Smith also of Burnaby, was granted an order presuming the death of seaman John Henry Budge who disappeared from the Lake Minnewankee Oct. 10, 1950, while the vessel was at Port Alberni. She was described as sole beneficiary of Budge's estate.

The orders were made by Mr. Justice Arthur Lord of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Missing Salesman Reported in U.S.
VANCOUVER (CP)—A U.S. immigration official said Wednesday that a missing Vancouver real estate man entered the United States the night his car was abandoned in North Vancouver.

Kees Lidsman, 29, a recent immigrant from The Netherlands, has been missing since Jan. 16. His car was found abandoned on the North Shore next day. His briefcase and two pocketbooks were found within, emptied.

John Boyd, director of the U.S. immigration service in Seattle, said Wednesday Lidsman was a "crossed the border at Blaine with a ticket for San Francisco. He carried a visa valid for a two-week visit."

Explosive Fuel Sold to Citizens

CHICAGO (AP)—A house-to-house search enveloped a west side area Wednesday night when fire officials learned that 1,300 gallons of an explosive gasoline-fuel oil mixture had been mistakenly sold to scores of residents as stove fuel.

By late Wednesday night nervous residents had turned in 950 gallons at a central receiving station manned by firemen.

No explosions were reported in the area but Harry Mohr, deputy chief fire marshal, warned that "a great potential for explosion" existed, since some fuel had not been uncovered in the vast, time-consuming search.

Coincidentally, there was an explosion and fire during the night at an apartment house on the sixth side, in which an infant was killed and at least six children were unaccounted for. But police and firemen said there was no connection with the west side fuel scare.

The fuel was purchased by residents of a densely populated low-rent district who live in flats mostly heated by space stoves. Some 200 firemen, policemen and civilian defence volunteers conducted the search, knocking on doors and broadcasting warnings with loudspeakers mounted on fire trucks.

Mohr set up his headquarters in the Martin Oil Company station which sold the mixture. Martin officials could not explain how the accident occurred. It was discovered when an official smelled gasoline fumes from a wholesale dealer's truck which had supposedly been filled with fuel oil.

Most of the oil was sold in five- and 10-gallon quantities and the names of customers were unknown.

Mohr said the greatest danger was that an accumulation of gasoline fumes would explode. He said each stove in which the fuel was used would have to be drained, and the fumes fanned out.

Man's Battered Body Discovered Under Coal Pile
HAMILTON (CP)—The battered body of a 51-year-old unemployed carpenter, missing since Friday, was found Wednesday under a coal pile in the basement of his condemned home.

Police said William Perry had been beaten on the head with a sharp instrument. They found the body while investigating a fire which swept through the kitchen Sunday night.

Police said Mr. Perry had not been seen since Friday when he showed friends at a club a roll of money he said contained $150. He said he intended to go to Buffalo, N.Y., for the weekend.

There was no trace of the money on his body. Mr. Perry, separated from his wife, lived alone in the house. A 14-year-old daughter lives with her mother here.

Pupils to Leave School Week Later
TORONTO (CP)—Students will be let out of Ontario's secondary schools a week later this year.

Education Minister Dunlop announced the change Wednesday with the promise that his department intends to "put more work and more time into school subjects."

Students in grades 10, 11 and 12 will remain in school until June 13 instead of June 6. Examinations will continue in some subjects until June 27.

In addition school principals will be discouraged from granting to "even the ablest pupils" recommendations, which excuse them from grade 12 examinations on the basis of their year's work.

Mr. Dunlop said the measure is designed to make the school term a full 200 days instead of 194 or 195 as in recent years. He said that within five years examinations will be held in July.

Farmers Facing Grasshopper Fight
By LARRY COLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan farmers are getting ready for another onslaught from a muscular little insect that has blitzed their crops periodically ever since settlement on the prairie began—the grasshopper.

Entomologists say 1958 will see the worst outbreak since 1951 when the insects chewed up $3,400,000 worth of crop. The infestation will be worst in the south-east of the province, particularly around Weyburn, 70 miles south-east of Regina.

Thanks to new chemicals and a barrage of information from the provincial government, farmers have a good chance of keeping hoppers damage to a minimum.

COMES IN CYCLES
Although the grasshopper is always present to some degree on the Prairies, its worst attacks come in fairly regular cycles. It strikes roughly every 10 years, and stays to cause extensive damage for three or four. Generally, the outbreaks coincide with dry periods and officials say last summer was drier than previous ones.

Rain doesn't agree with the grasshopper but when conditions suit he is a formidable enemy.

Atomic Ship Under Study

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEIGNIOREY CLUB, Que. (CP) Canada may be the second country in the world to harness atomic power in an ice-breaker to carve winter ship channels in the Arctic and on the Eastern seaboard.

Transport Minister Hees announced in a speech Wednesday night that the possibilities of a nuclear-propelled ice-breaker are under study.

"We definitely intend to use atomic propulsion for ice-breaker service. The Lenin, a huge ship with atomic engines, was launched in Finland last year."

Mr. Hees said the transport department, which operates Canada's present ice-breaker fleet, is setting up a committee to keep in touch with progress in other countries "with a view to application of nuclear power to Canadian ice-breakers in the future."

An atomic ship, freed of the need to make frequent refueling stops, has tremendous range. An ice-breaker using atomic engines would be able to spend months in the Arctic without having to make costly side trips to port for fuel.

The initial cost would be expensive, the minister said, but in the long run it would pay for itself by keeping ice-bound ports open longer in winter.

"Considerable progress has been made with the design and application of nuclear power for ship propulsion," he said. An atomic ice-breaker already is "technically feasible."

Search Abandoned For Plane Survivors
HONOLULU (AP)—Search for seven men aboard a crashed United States military air transport plane was abandoned Wednesday night, but the navy continued to look for possible survivors of a vanished weather plane off Guam.

Faint radio distress signals spurred the search for 10 U.S. Air Force men aboard the weather reconnaissance plane that disappeared Jan. 15 while entering the eye of a typhoon.

The radio signals, heard again Wednesday, could have come from a hand-cranked transmitter on a raft.

UBC Fund Reaches $4,666,000 Mark
VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of B.C. today announced it has collected $4,666,000 towards its $7,500,000 development fund objective.

General Chairman Paul E. Cooper of the development fund committee said a contribution of $15 has been received from a widowed mother of an 11-year-old daughter who wrote that she feels she has "a personal stake" in the future of UBC.

Mr. Cooper said in his reply: "It is with the help of public-spirited citizens like yourself, who have a personal interest in the future development of the university, that we are convinced we will reach our objective."

It took a personal appeal from President Eisenhower to persuade Churchill to allow public exhibition of his work.

Sprawling Mental Hospitals Scored
TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Humphrey Osmond, superintendent of the Saskatchewan Hospital at Weyburn Wednesday night criticized growth of mental hospitals into great, sprawling institutions.

He told a service club luncheon that mental hospitals force patients to become "quiet, frightened, apathetic and unhappy people."

Most mental hospitals were poorly lit and furnished. "In these dismal surroundings are herds of people," he said. "This is no cause for rejoicing."

"Our patients have been driven away or fled from the world which you know. Through regimentation, the big hospitals become a world apart where patients develop customs and habits required in the outside world."

Named Aide for External Affairs
OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of Wallace Nesbitt as parliamentary assistant for external affairs was announced Wednesday in the Commons by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mr. Nesbitt, MP for Oxford, Ont., had been parliamentary assistant to the prime minister and was deputy leader of Canada's delegation to the last United Nations session.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had been an able Canadian representative and the prime minister felt it only proper that he be given an opportunity to work in the field he has already served so well.

Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson, with years of UN experience from his former capacity of external affairs minister, added his praise for Mr. Nesbitt's work at the UN. He said Mr. Nesbitt had done "fine work" there.
